

ABSTRACT

Methods and materials for the treatment of human meningococemia are provided in which therapeutically effective amounts of BPI protein products are administered.